

Referees

Rio Ferdinand and Nemanja Vidic have plenty to say, while Antonio Valencia silently faces Viktor Kassai as he receives the third of the four yellow cards shown during the Wembley final between FC Barcelona and Manchester United FC. For the 35-year-old Hungarian referee it was his 14th UEFA Champions League appearance.

THE UEFA SQUAD FOR THE 2011/12 SEASON

Refereeing structures have been modified since the 2010/11 campaign kicked-off, with the result that this section features the 34 referees who occupy places in the Elite and Elite Development categories. The 65 referees in the First Class category bring the total neatly to 100 and, in their slipstream, are 68 referees in the Second category and 104 in Third, bringing the UEFA squad to a grand total of 271. The current listings are valid for the first half of the 2011/12 season, with a review scheduled to take place during the winter break.

As the new season gets under way, the record of 53 UEFA Champions League appearances by Denmark's Kim Milton Nielsen still seems unassailable, with Belgium's Frank De Bleckere his nearest active rival in the all-time appearance chart.

UEFA's policy is to promote and develop promising referees. A case in point is Hungary's Viktor Kassai, who started last season with only nine UEFA Champions League games on his c/v and brought his total to 14 by handling the final at Wembley.

The result is that, in comparison with the 33 referees who appeared in last season's Stats Book, 14 of the 34 who feature in the current edition are new faces. All of them, however, had already made their UEFA Champions League debut prior to the start of the 2011/12 campaign. Spain's Carlos Velasco Carballo (5 games), Norway's Svein Oddvar Moen (4), Russia's Alexey Nikolaev (3) and Turkey's Cüneyt Çakır (3) are now in the Elite category, while the faces from the Elite Development category which appear in these pages for the first time belong to referees who start the new season with between one and three UEFA Champions League fixtures already under their belts – including, by the way, Italian referee Paolo Tagliavento, who handled the UEFA Under-21 Championship final between Spain and Switzerland in Århus in June.

Appointments for UEFA Champions League matches are announced two days before matches via uefa.com at approximately 11.00 CET on Sundays and Mondays prior to matchdays. In principle, each referee is accompanied by a team of two assistant referees; a 4th Official; and two additional assistant referees from the same country. The experiment with the additional match officials positioned on the goal-line continues through the 2011/12 campaign.
