

OVER €77M SHARED BY 183 CLUBS

UEFA's solidarity payments mean that the number of clubs that benefit from UEFA Champions League revenue goes far beyond the 32 that make it to the competition's group stage. In addition, enhanced solidarity payments, thanks to a new distribution system put in place for the 2015-18 cycle, mean clubs earn more than ever before from the money generated by the UEFA Champions League and UEFA Europa League.

A total of 183 clubs therefore received solidarity payments amounting to nearly €77.4m – over €29m more than the previous season. The beneficiaries are the clubs participating in the three qualifying rounds of the UEFA Champions League and UEFA Europa League, and the clubs that are knocked out of the UEFA Europa League in the play-offs.

Clubs involved in the UEFA Champions League

Clubs that participate in the qualifying rounds and do not qualify for the group stage receive the following amounts for each round played:

- First qualifying round: €200,000
- Second qualifying round: €300,000
- Third qualifying round: €400,000 (only eliminated clubs)

Domestic champions that fail to qualify for the group stage receive €250,000 in addition to the amounts awarded for participating in each qualifying round.

No solidarity payments are made in relation to the play-offs, because each of the clubs in question will have already received the following allocation: €2m for each winning club and €3m for the losers. Clubs eliminated at this stage retain the payments made for taking part in the first and second qualifying rounds, as applicable.

Clubs involved in the UEFA Europa League

All clubs participating in the qualifying rounds receive the following amounts per round played, even if they qualify for the group stage:

- First qualifying round: €200,000
- Second qualifying round: €210,000
- Third qualifying round: €220,000

In addition, each club eliminated in the UEFA Europa League play-offs receives €230,000. No solidarity payments are made to winners of the play-off matches. However, they retain the payments received for the first, second and third qualifying rounds, as applicable.

Significant payment increase

The substantial increase in solidarity payments to clubs from this season especially benefits clubs that do not qualify for the group stage of either of the two UEFA club competitions. This is seen as an important example of the proper implementation of the solidarity principle, which is central to UEFA's key values. ●
